THE BLIND BOY.

By COLLEY CIBBER.

Colley Cibber was born in 1671; died in 1757. He was an actor and dramatist. He is remembered chiefly as the man who made the well-known stage version of Shakespeare's Richard III.

SAY, what is that thing called Light,
Which I must not enjoy?
What are the blessings of the sight,
O, tell your poor blind boy!

You talk of of wondrous things you see,
You say the sun shines bright;
I feel him warm, but how can he
Or make it day or night?

My day or night myself I make
Whenever I sleep or play;
And could I ever keep awake
With me 'twere always day.

With heavy sighs I often hear
You mourn my hapless woe;
But sure with patience I can bear
A loss I ne'er can know.

Then let not what I cannot have
My cheer of mind destroy;
What thus I sing, I am a king,
Although a poor blind boy.

THE PLAINSMAN AT THE ACADEMY

Western Play on Boards of Eighth Street House Three Days This Week.

TELLS OF HORRORS OF WAR

Edwin Emerson Lectures at the Academy—"Young Buffalo" at Bijou All Week.

"The Plainsman," the new drama by Thomas Broadhurst, which Messrs Bradon and Peters will present here at the Academy Thursday, Friday and Saturday with matinee on Saturday, with Orrin Johnson as the star, supported by a most natural, engrossing story, with original treatment. Following to the point of murder, intrigue and duplicity, thwarted by a beautiful, constant love, are the moving passions of the drama. Love in the stout heart of Robert Fairfax, the grandson of a Virginian, and reciprocated by Dora, his sweet, innocent wife conquers all things. "They are as twin roses tossed on an Arizona temple."

A clear sky; the arid soil of the range; alkali dust; sage brush, cactus, cowboys, Indians, Mexicans, renegades, army people, United States cavalrymen, sombreros, the low white adobe houses, clumps of cottonwoods, the tinkling of the mandolin, the dizziness of the coyote, the gleam of the gun-barrel, the song of the six-shooter, the lion-hearted hero, the polished knave of a Spaniard, the constancy of Dora. This is some of the atmosphere, and these some of the impressions that the auditor carries away with him after having seen this stirring drama of American life, "The Plainsman."

War Correspondent Lectures.

The adventures of an American war correspondent who was the only man to run the blockade in and out of Port Arthur, and who saw action with both the Russian and Japanese armies in the field will be described in the illustrated lecture to be given by Edwin Emerson at Academy of Music on April 25th.

Ensign Lindpainter, who was the official photographer at Port Arthur. The views illustrating the lecture were made from photographs taken on the firing line, in the trenches, at the risk of life. The snap shots were made by both Emerson and Lindpainter. The two soldiers of fortune began their friendship at Port Arthur, when the Japs were bombarding the city.

RICH COPPER MINES.

Those at Gold Hill, N. C., to Be Largely Developed.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) SALISBURY, N. C., April 22.—Mr. Walter George Newman, of New York, one of the promoters of the Gold Hill copper mine at Gold Hill, together with a number of mining experts and legal counsel from the metropolis, is spending a few days at the Gold Hill mine making tests and experiments. The product of the mine has recently improved in quality and richness to an astonishing extent. It is proposed to enlarge and push the work at that point more vigorously than ever before. It is reported that recent tests prove the ore yields about 40 to the ton. The Salisbury Board of Aldermen has passed an ordinance authorizing the city a misdemeanor to expectorate upon any sidewalk in the city, and punishable by a fine of $5. The ordinance also included the street cars.

WAS FATALLY INJURED.

Aged Man Never Rallies From Shock Received in Runaway.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) HARRISONBURG, VA., April 22.—James McBride, a well-known citizen of the Spring Creek neighborhood, is dead as a result of injuries received in a runaway accident. Mr. McBride had been at Beaver Creek church, this county, at service, and was hitching up his horse to go home when the horse started and ran away. Mr. McBride suffered a compound fracture of the hip and was unconscious for several hours. He was fully revived, and the end came yesterday. He was eighty-two years of age, and was a native of Pennsylvania. Before the time of the Pennsylvania Railroad, he was contractor for hauling merchandise and United States mail from Philadelphia across the Alleghenies to Pittsburgh. His body was shipped to Illinois for interment.
